

Capture data anywhere using familiar devices.

Business doesn't only happen in the office, and your operations can't be put on hold while you wait for documents or personnel to arrive onsite. ILINX Mobile applications allow your team to collect and upload information from wherever they are – using the devices they already use on a daily basis. A simple photograph/index/transmit process delivers data directly to your line of business systems.

No more lost or damaged docs

Collecting documents in the field and transporting them back to the office introduces the risk of loss or damage. Losing information is not only embarrassing – it may also be a breach of privacy. ILINX Mobile eliminates that risk by delivering data from the field into to your workflows.

Low technical barrier

Your field workers are experts at what they do, and mastering new technology shouldn't be a barrier to delivering excellent service. ILINX Mobile makes it easy for them to collect data onsite using mobile phones and other devices they're already familiar with.

Customizable features

Use the foundational ILINX Mobile App or integrate mobile data capture capabilities into your organization's familiar environment with Mobile SDK. Add your logo, colors, and brand elements to create a user experience that blends seamlessly with your existing website and applications.
